

BEYOND SEWERING

Making Sound Water, Wastewater and Water Resource Decisions for your community

November 16, 2005

Is your Community facing difficult water resources decisions?

The Beyond Sewering Conference can help. Learn about the alternatives your community can use to achieve a sustainable water future.

Comprehensive and integrated water resource planning is the most economical and sustainable approach to a healthy future for a city or town. Many new and innovative possibilities can help a community grow in to the 21st century.

This conference is dedicated to helping local decision makers get answers to pressing water resources issues facing their community. Come explore how to use your limited resources effectively and learn about the new ideas and alternatives available.
